

NATIONAL JOBBERS AT WORK AGAIN.

Trail of the High Official Ring in the Banco Espanol Job.

SEE-SAW WITH STOCKS.

The Hispano-Cuban Institution Used as a Sort of Financial Shuttlecock.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The same clever and unscrupulous ring that turned the nation's crisis into a stock jobbing operation just prior to the declaration of war with Spain has been at work again in the matter of the Banco Espanol. And these are the facts:

It is well known that members or agents of this ring were on hand in Cuba ready to take advantage of the fluctuations in Banco Espanol stocks which would occur as the negotiations looked favorable or otherwise for the United States Government adopting the bank as its tax collecting agent. It is fairly well known also that the jobbers in Havana were kept posted as to the progress of the negotiations between the bank's agents who have been here and the powers at the War Department.

The bank stock was at a low figure in the early part of December, being quoted at about 45¢. A few days previous to December 15 the agitation looking to getting the bank under United States control became public. On the 15th the stock rose to 65¢, 72¢ asked. Then came certain official expressions doubt that the deal would go through, and the stock began to decline. Another boom was given to the stock by the publication of the official order of January 7. The stock rose to 94½¢, and on January 11 it went up to 95½¢.

The Journal's exclusive story that the order creating the bank a collection agency will be revoked will be officially verified in a few days. General Brooke has been asked to make a statement of what has already been done looking to the local negotiations with the bank and his reply is expected on Monday.

General Wood, it is learned to-day, declined at the outset to utilize the Spanish bank as a collector of taxes, knowing, as General Brooke did, the hostility of the Cubans to the scheme. He declined also to obey the order of January 7, by which it was to recognize the agents of the Spanish bank as tax collectors in Santiago province and appointed his own tax collectors. General Wood made a special report on his plans to the President and it is understood that it is this report which has led the President to nullify the contract with the Banco Espanol, although the negotiations had gone so far that all that remained was the approval of the bond by General Brooke and Secretary Alger.

THIEF SNEAKED INTO MRS. GRANNIS'S HOME.

She Had Befriended Him, Now Prosecutes Him, but Doesn't Want Him Ridiculed.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Grannis, president of the National Christian League for the Protection of Social Purity, preferred a charge of burglary yesterday in Jefferson Market Court against Herbert Williams, colored. The prisoner said he has no home.

Mrs. Grannis said that several months ago she had heard Williams's tale of woe and had given him employment. He remained her kindness by staying at night, following her into her room at night, and on Friday night he was caught hiding in a closet.

Williams was held in $2,000 for examination Monday.

Mrs. Grannis made a plea to reporters that the prisoner be not ridiculed in the press.

JERSEY CITY CAPITAL GOING INTO METALS.

Two Companies Incorporated, One with the Enormous Stock of $30,000,000.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 21.—Articles of incorporation of the National Enamelling and Stamping Company were filed in the office of the Secretary of State here today. The capital is $30,000,000, and the company is authorized to mine, smelt, cast, enamel and deal in all kinds of metals. Of the capital stock $10,000,000 will be preferred.

Ever since it became known that the Aldermen had treated themselves to a feast at the Astor House the night of the funeral of Alderman Scott, some of the City Fathers have denied that they were present.

There were fifty suppers served at the Astor House, but among those who were thirteen or fourteen clerks and attendants. The following named Aldermen were at the City Hall just before the supper and left to go to the Astor House:

President Thomas P. Wood, Vice-President William H. O'Connell, John H. Adams, James J. Briggs, John L. Burleigh, George A. Borrell, Francis J. Byrne, Jeremiah Cronin, John Diemer, Matthew B. Doyle, Frank Dunn, James P. Elliott, Frederick P. Fick, Joseph A. Flinn, Henry Geiger, Bernard Glick, Elmer Glick, Dennis J. Harrington,

Flight of ex-Policeman Jackson from His Spouse.

ferred stock, with 7 per cent. cumulative dividends, and $20,000,000 common stock. The incorporators were Wilson E. March, Charles N. King, Jr., and Albert S. King, all of Jersey City.

The Santa Fe Gold and Copper Mining Company was also incorporated today. The capital is $2,500,000, and the incorporators are Edward Buffum, Louis Adler, Eugene Truettwell and B. F. Le Freese, all of Jersey City.

CITY FATHERS WHO ATE FUNERAL BAKED MEATS.

List of Aldermen Who Left City Hall for Supper at the Astor House After the Scott Obsequies.

Ever since it became known that the Aldermen had treated themselves to a feast at the Astor House the night of the funeral of Alderman Scott, some of the City Fathers have denied that they were present.

There were fifty suppers served at the Astor House, but among those who were thirteen or fourteen clerks and attendants. The following named Aldermen were at the City Hall just before the supper and left to go to the Astor House:

President Thomas P. Wood, Vice-President William H. O'Connell, John H. Adams, James J. Briggs, John L. Burleigh, George A. Borrell, Francis J. Byrne, Jeremiah Cronin, John Diemer, Matthew B. Doyle, Frank Dunn, James P. Elliott, Frederick P. Fick, Joseph A. Flinn, Henry Geiger, Bernard Glick, Elmer Glick, Dennis J. Harrington,

There were fifty suppers served at the Astor House, but among those who were thirteen or fourteen clerks and attendants. The following named Aldermen were at the City Hall just before the supper and left to go to the Astor House:

President Thomas P. Wood, Vice-President William H. O'Connell, John H. Adams, James J. Briggs, John L. Burleigh, George A. Borrell, Francis J. Byrne, Jeremiah Cronin, John Diemer, Matthew B. Doyle, Frank Dunn, James P. Elliott, Frederick P. Fick, Joseph A. Flinn, Henry Geiger, Bernard Glick, Elmer Glick, Dennis J. Harrington,

There were fifty suppers served at the Astor House, but among those who were thirteen or fourteen clerks and attendants. The following named Aldermen were at the City Hall just before the supper and left to go to the Astor House:

President Thomas P. Wood, Vice-President William H. O'Connell, John H. Adams, James J. Briggs, John L. Burleigh, George A. Borrell, Francis J. Byrne, Jeremiah Cronin, John Diemer, Matthew B. Doyle, Frank Dunn, James P. Elliott, Frederick P. Fick, Joseph A. Flinn, Henry Geiger, Bernard Glick, Elmer Glick, Dennis J. Harrington,

There were fifty suppers served at the Astor House, but among those who were thirteen or fourteen clerks and attendants. The following named Aldermen were at the City Hall just before the supper and left to go to the Astor House:

President Thomas P. Wood, Vice-President William H. O'Connell, John H. Adams, James J. Briggs, John L. Burleigh, George A. Borrell, Francis J. Byrne, Jeremiah Cronin, John Diemer, Matthew B. Doyle, Frank Dunn, James P. Elliott, Frederick P. Fick, Joseph A. Flinn, Henry Geiger, Bernard Glick, Elmer Glick, Dennis J. Harrington, BACHELOR COP, BE WARNED BY THIS.

Here's Jackson, a Hero Once, and a Terror, Afraid of His Wife.

SPIRIT IS BROKEN NOW.

Jumps from a Window to Escape Her, and Begs Comrades to Protect Him.

When David Jackson was a bachelor he wore a blue coat and brass buttons, and his very name was a terror to evildoers. Now that he has retired from the force and taken a wife unto himself he is a craven of the most pathetic sort. Last night he jumped through a window, carrying the sash with him, in a wild effort to escape from his home, No. 1880 Boston road.

Two policemen, who had been his comrades, were passing at the time. When they had wiped the blood from his face and picked various fragments of glass out of his flesh, they recognized him as the former hero, and jumped to the conclusion that he had been battling against great odds.

"Don't take me back home!" he cried. "It's my wife. I made over my property to her, and she's nagging me to death."

Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance.

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

"Assuring him that they would protect him, they carried Jackson into his home to wait for an ambulance. But the surgeon was content to plaster up the patient without taking him to the hospital. Mrs. Jackson resumed her remarks, after the strangers had gone, and her husband, disfigured as he was, fled to the street again. Once more he was taken home, with despair in his countenance."

TWO PERSONS LIVED OVER A CENTURY.

Lucy Bettis Remembered Distinctly About the Events of the War of 1812.

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 21.—Mrs. Lucy Bettis, colored, who was without doubt the oldest person in Western Maryland, is dead at her home in Hagerstown. She was aged 102 years, and was remarkably well preserved. Two hours previous to her death she sat up out of bed and ate a hearty meal. She was married in 1812, and remembers distinctly about the war of that year.

Carmel, N. Y., Jan. 21.—John Bennett, who would have been 101 years old had he lived till March, died this morning at Kent Cliffs, after an illness of two weeks, from grip. His oldest son, James Bennett, of Locktown, is nearly eighty years old.

MUNYON'S TRIUMPH.

GRIP, CATARRH, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS AND ALL THROAT AND LUNG DISEASES POSITIVELY CURED BY

MUNYON'S INHALER

Better than Medicine. Better than Doctors. Better than going to Florida. Better than anything you have ever tried.

It reaches the sore spots. It heals the raw places. It goes to the seat of disease. It penetrates obscure places where drugs taken into the stomach cannot reach. It acts as a balm and tonic to the whole system.

It Vaporizes the Diseased Parts. It Cleanses and Soothes the Inflamed Organs. Every pore in your body drinks in these life-giving agents. Every inhalation enriches the blood and gives new vitality to the whole system.

THOUSANDS CURED IN NEW YORK.

If you have a Cold, try it. If you have the Grip, try it. If you have Catarrh, try it. If you have Sore Throat, try it. If you have a Cough, try it. If you have any throat or lung trouble, try it.

MAILED TO ANY ADDRESS FOR $1.

Special Demonstration at the Following Drug Stores:

W. B. RIKER, SONS & CO., 22d st. and 6th ave. KALISH PHARMACY, 22d st. and 4th ave. HEBBURN & CO. (in corporation), 196 Broadway. P. W. KINSWAN, JR., 125th st. and 8th ave. MILHAUS'S SONS, 183 Broadway. H. H. DE VINNEY, 163 Christopher st. H. W. WILSON, 147 2d ave. F. WICKERMAN, Greenwich and Fulton sts. A. N. LINDBERG, 418 10th ave. F. K. JAMES, 750 8th ave. GETTY & JAMES, 2050 8th ave. J. A. BOYD, 82d st. and Columbus ave.

Polite attendants will be on hand to answer all questions. Everybody is invited to give the Inhaler a free trial. You are welcome to a treatment whether you purchase or not.

MUNYON'S REMEDIES. If you have Rheumatism my Rheumatism Cure will cure it in a few hours; my Dyspepsia Cure will cure any case of indigestion or stomach trouble; 90 per cent of kidney complaints, including Bright's Disease, can be cured with my Kidney Cure; nervous affections and diseases of the heart are controlled and cured by my Nerve and Heart Cure.

Eminent physicians are at your service free. ABSOLUTELY FREE. Wonderful Electrical Machines, too. If unable to come to the office, write Prof. Munyon for free medical advice for any disease. 9 A. M. to 8 P. M., except Sunday. 907 BROADWAY, COR. 20th.

“CAMMEYER” STAMPED ON A SHOE

MEANS STANDARD OF MERIT.

Announcement.

We will open our new store, which will be made even more attractive than the old one, at the same place,

On or About March 1st Next.

Bench Workers and Hand Workers are working and factories are running, and Designers and Finishers are busy night and day to supply our orders for a new stock throughout of boots and shoes, that in the whole world

Cannot be equalled.

All up-to-date, Modern ideas, improvements, Methods and materials.

Everything the latest, the newest, the freshest.

Yes, and the best.

Everything that can be needed or Required for footwear.

We will merit all our former success, with a large increase thereof.

Our Office, until the new store is ready for business, will be on the 3d floor at the old corner.

ALFRED J. CAMMEYER,

6th Avenue and 20th Street.

RIDLEYS

309, 311, 311½ to 321 GRAND Street, New York City.

ANNUAL JANUARY

HOUSE FURNISHING BARGAIN SALES

Housekeepers throughout the land look forward to this sale.

Justly so. They are lessons in economy.

MONEY-SAVING EVENTS.

Trusts and combinations of manufacturers (who are trying to advance prices) brought to terms or circumvented by our colossal transactions and unlimited purchasing powers.

WE BUY OUR GOODS FROM THE FOUNTAIN HEADS.

Where the trees are cut, sawn into logs and are shaped into ladders and useful household goods; there we buy our Wooden Ware.

At the blast furnaces and rolling mills, where tin and copper plate are rolled, we buy it and have it moulded into useful kitchen utensils and household hardware.

To the broom corn farms away out West our buyer goes to procure the necessary material for brooms, thus buying everything from the first source, saving our customers all intermediate profits.

We launch this, the greatest money-saving

HOUSEFURNISHING BARGAIN SALE.

Some Things to Ponder Over.

Gray Enamelled Steel Ware is almost supplanting tinware. It is clean, sanitary and durable when only first quality is used. We keep no SECONDS; only first-grade goods, guaranteed and exchangeable. But the price is lower than seconds, cheaper than tinware.

GRAY ENAMELLED TEA AND COFFEE POTS, 2 qt. 15c; 4 qt. 25c

Gray Enamelled Rice Boilers, double, 1½ quart. 25c

No. 7, Gray Enamelled Tea Kettle 25c

Gray Enamelled Chamber Pail, 25c

Gray Enamelled 4-quart Dresden Sauce Pan, 25c

14-quart Gray Enamelled Dish Pan, 25c

14-inch square Roasting Pan, Gray Enamelled, 25c

12-quart Gray Enamelled Water Pail, 25c

WHAT 5c. WILL BUY

In first-grade Gray Enamelled Ware.

Gray Enamelled Cupidator, 5c

Gray Enamelled Soap Dish, 5c

Gray Enamelled 1-quart Bucket, 5c

Gray Enamelled 14-inch Wash Bowl, 5c

Gray Enamelled Cups, 1 qt. 5c

Gray Enamelled 2-qt. Lipped Sauce Pan, 5c